Howing the meeting ranged over a wide variety of subjects, some old and ome new, furnishing an excellent dea of the problems which will conront the delegation upon its assemolage at the beginning of the session. The meeting was presided over by udge Lynch, chairman of the committee, and was attended by Sen-ator Carter, Representatives Lynn, Martin and Miller, and the following members of the committee: J. F. Finlay, Bernard Loveman, R. C. Jones, J. J. Mahoney, R. F. Callaway, John Chambliss and Emil Wassman.

He recognized, he said, that labor without capital would be in a bad way, and he appreciated the inter-relation of the one to the other. Abolish Some Offices.

He said that the delegation had already agreed upon some things it wanted to do, among these being the reduction of expense attached to the county administration. The delegation was going to abolish some existing jobs and create no new ones he said, and it was afterwards stated that among those offices slated for abolition is that of county auditor, and the county sealer of weights and measures, this being consolidated with the office of license inspector. "Economy and retrenchment," he said, "was a good platform for campaign purposes, but this delegation meant it after election as well as before." He said that the delegation had al-

Mr. Carter's remarks were taken as expressing the sentiments of the delegation and the committee then proceeded towards the appointment of sub-committees. However, nearly everybody present had an idea relating to some specific bit of legislation desired, and discussion covered a wide range of territory before the committees were finally appointed.

River Question Again.

One of the first problems talked of was the old familiar one of flood protection. Mr. Callaway said that city growth was impossible until adequate protection was secured, and it was decided to appoint a special committee at a later date, composed of leaders of the Chattanooga-Hamilton County Flood Prevention association, to report upon specific meas-

Committees on industrial affairs, flood protection, and taxes will be appointed later.

Lynch Against Contest.

During the course of the meeting it was stated by Judge Lynch, chairman, that in his opinion a contest, such as is now contemplated by Mr Cleage, would operate to entirely block any program of legislation contemplated, and for that reason he was greatly opposed to a contest. He said that as no one accused either Mr. Carter or Mr. Cleage of being personally involved in the irregularities connected with the election neither one was in need of a vindication, and there was no real reason for a contest. The committee, however, took no action in the contest matter.

Funeral services over the body of Mrs.

Pauline Hancock Nairn, who died Tuesday night in a local hospital after an iliness of two weeks with influenza, are being held from O'Donohue's chapel Wednesday afternoon at 3:30, with Dr. J. W. Bachman officiating. The body will be placed in a vault in Forest Hills cemetery and the final interment will await the return of the deceased's husband. William Nairn, Jr., from France. Pallbearers are announced as Charles T. Helbeck, Arthur Bell. Charlton Howell, Will Dethro, Julius Schlesinger, E. S. Harrison, S. L. Howell and W. A. Campbell. Surviving the deceased are her husband, who is with the American army "over there;" her mother, Mrs. R. B. Hancock, a brother, Jay, now in France, and two sisters, Misses Etta and Floy Hancock. Mrs. Nairn was born and reared in Chattanoogs, and until four years ago, when she removed with her husband to Nowata, Okla., practically all her life was spent in this city. When Mr. Nairn entered tha service she returned to Chattanooga.

Other matters touched upon, and which will be more fully treated when the special sub-committees make their reports, were the tax system, the revision of the existing road tax law, and the publicity question already referred to.

Three committees were appointed at this morning's meeting, as follows:

does not."

After this the question was brought up, had the Crittenton home really accomplished anything from the standpoint of wiping out the venereal diseases in Chattanooga? Dr. Brown asked had the cases at the male clinic decreased, and Capt. Cole answered by saying that he did know that the venereal percentage in the army had been greatly reduced. Dr. Brown said the women in confinement at the home were of the very lowest type and that they wouldn't appeal to the average soldier or any one. On the other hand, he remarked that the "fluffy ruffle" class are walking the streets.

that the "fluffy ruffle" class are walking the streets.

Dr. Knight stated that the government is working and endeavoring to do its best, and that even by the most efficient service it would be impossible for them to secure all of the prostitutes and lock them up. In speaking of the Crittenton home being the proper place for the treatment of women, Dr. Knight said; "Personally, I was always opposed to putting the women in the Crittenton home. I wanted a municipal hospital. I didn't think that the ladies were experienced enough to handle the class of women that I knew they would be called upon to deal with." Capt. Cole added that there was no would be called upon to deal with.

In bringing the question of the

In referring to reforming these women Dr. Brown said that he could not recall having ver seen a reformed prostitute, and that he didn't believe anything had been accomplished at the home from a moral standpoint. He had heard a woman curse at the home. Dr. Knight said that the majority

Capt. Cole said most of these

Nashville, stating that he could not be here at the mass meeting of women this afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Giles Howard, vice-president of the National Service league, and acting president during Mrs. Mentague's illness, immediately made an effort to secure other speakers.

The speakers were Supt. J. W. Abel, Attorney Byron E. Tatum and Supt. C. H. Winder. Mrs. Howard presided and introduced the speakers in her usual graceful way. In presenting Supt. Abel, the first speaker on the program, she referred in a very neat way to oratorical substitutes as well as food substitutes, and the intrinsic value of the same.

Supt. Abel's talk was along the lines of the technical, telling what had been done since the organization of the food-conservation movement in the county.

The meeting opened with the singing of "America," led by Mrs. John Lamar Meek, The Camp Greenleaf band furnished the music for the program, Mrs. C. M. Willingham, city chairman of tood conservation for the service league, read a letter from Mr. Hoover, in which he pleaded for continuation of the conservation of foor during the deconstruction period, that America might divide her bounty with the needy across the seas.
